—Mattie Vickers at the opera house on Thursday evening.

—The trade in tomato and cabbage plants was quite lively to-day.

—Regular meeting night of Crystal Temple of Honor, in their hall in the Judd block.

—Mr. Michael Murphy lost a very valuable cow, on Saturday last, of milk fever.

—The Memorial Day committee met at Grand Army headquarters this evening.

—The old folks' waltzing club will give a social party in Apollo hall on Friday evening.

—Some of the finest specimens of turkeys we have ever seen have been grown by Mr. J. T. Wright, of this city.

—Mr. Burr Hanson has commenced to rebuild and repair his dwelling house, which was almost wholly destroyed by fire on Saturday last.

—Mr. Anson Rogers is confined to his home by illness. He has been confined to his bed for two or three days, but is some better to-day.

—Main and Milwaukee streets were cleaned up this morning, and now present a very neat appearance, being free from mud.

—Remember the May party, to be given by the Janesville Guards, at their armory, on Thursday evening. The public is cordially invited, and a pleasant time will be the result.

—The sale of lands for delinquent state and county taxes for the year 1888 will commence at the county treasurer's office to-morrow morning. The list of lands to be sold is not very large.

—A mad-dog, or one supposed to be mad, was killed on North Jackson street this forenoon. The dog was killed by Mr. Coon, who used a bar of iron to crush the animal's skull.

—The frames of Conductor Frank Wood's new residence on West Bluff street, and that of B. F. Duvall's on Madison street, are up, and will soon be enclosed.

—Captain Norcross has commenced work on the foundation of his new building on West Milwaukee street. Mr. D. C. Ward is at work with the pile driver putting down piling.

—The Janesville Concordia society will give another of their social dancing parties in their hall in the Mitchell block to-morrow evening. Good music will be in attendance, and those invited will be made welcome.

—Mr. F. B. Hinkley, residing on Chatham street, died of congestion of the heart at one o'clock. The deceased was at one time connected with mutual benefit association of this city, but lately engaged in selling nursery trees in this vicinity.

—Mr. John Shortney, who has been very ill during the past few weeks, is rapidly improving, and we are glad to note he is passed all danger. He is able to sit up much of the time, and converses freely with his many friends who visit him.

—Mr. Michael Hodgins has commenced to re-lay the stone gutter on the Main street front of the Jackson & Smith block. If he succeeds in doing as good a job as he did on the block a little further north, the public will give him the champion belt in laying stone gutters.

—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Pierson, south Main street, was again thrown into mourning this morning, by the death of their infant babe—only four days old. A few days after their four year old son died of scarlet fever, and now death again enters their grief stricken home and claims their innocent babe. Truly, they have the sympathy of all in their double affliction. The funeral was held at the house this afternoon.

—Messrs. Coon & Hanson will shortly open a retail furniture store in Norcross' new block on River street. Mr. Hanson is well and favorably known as a practical furniture man. Mr. Coon has been engaged in the same business at Rochester, Minnesota. Thirty years experience has made him thoroughly familiar with the details of the business. The firm will carry a full line of furniture, and will duly announce their opening in the columns of the Gazette.

—There will be a meeting held at the council chamber on Tuesday evening by the business men of the city to consider the question of organizing a protective association. All residents in the city are requested to be present. The association is not on the order of a collection agency, but is an organization which seeks to protect retail dealers against those who are bad pay. The advantages of the association will be clearly set forth to-morrow evening at the meeting, which begins at eight o'clock.

—Milwaukee summer theatre, a place that all residents of the Cream City are proud of, Schults Park, has been much improved during the season, and now stands in the front rank of summer theaters of the world. The grand opening is announced for June 24, the attractions being, The Bijou opera company, in "Orpheus and Eurydice," with the original scenery, cast and costumes. That it is a grand production the fact of its running 150 nights in New York and four weeks in Chicago sufficiently attest. It is reported that parties are already being made up in Janesville to attend the opening.

—Two young men from the town of Union, named Fred Franklin and Thomas Keating, brought into the city to-day, four young wolves, which they caught in that town yesterday. They reported that while out on the farm they saw this old wolf and nine whelps, near their house, and while they returned to the house for a gun and shovel, the old wolf got away, with five of the whelps. They succeeded in capturing four whelps, which they exhibited to-day to the county clerk, but were compelled to return to Union and to kill the "peaky varmints" and exhibit their carcasses to the chairman of this town, obtaining his certificate, before they can draw the state and county bounty, which will amount to sixty dollars—ten dollars each from the county and five dollars from the state. The boys claim that they will capture the other six before they quit hunting wolves.

—An adjourned meeting of the board of education was held on Saturday evening, at which all the commissioners were present except Commissioner Rager. Two bills were presented and audited. Superintendent R. W. Burton and Clerk of the Board A. O. Wilson, were appointed to confer with owners of halls and the trustees of the churches for the purpose of securing a suitable place for holding the graduating exercises of the high school. Commissioner Wilson introduced a resolution fixing the sum to be raised for school purposes the coming year at $15,000, $800 of which is to be used for repairs, and $700 for retrenching. The resolution was adopted, and the clerk will so notify the common council. The board adjourned.

—Considerable excitement was created on East Milwaukee street about five o'clock on Saturday evening by a runaway horse, attached to a light buggy. The horse belonged to Mr. Alex. McAlpin, and was at the fair ground in charge of his son, who had Mr. H. Dewey for a companion. While waiting at the fair ground young McAlpin took the bit out of the horse's mouth to allow it to eat some grass, and in this condition it became frightened at some other horses running loose. McAlpin's horse started for the city, leaving both the young man and the fair ground in a state of alarm. The horse started for home at a high rate of speed, when reaching Main street the horse fell, and took a direct line for Webb & Hall's jewelry store. While down the animal was caught by Mr. Joe Kizer, who held on to the runaway; the horse regained its feet, and started to cross the bridge, but Mr. Kizer held on to it and succeeded in guiding the horse to the opposite side of the street, where it was secured. But very little damage resulted—one of the wheels of the buggy had a few spokes broken.

—There will be a special meeting of the Baptist church and society at the lecture room of the Congregational church this evening, at 7:30 o'clock. Important business will be presented. A full attendance is desired. By order.

WAKINGNESS.

Some people are very light sleepers; they hear the clock strike every hour in the night, and in fact take a sort of a morbid pride in their ability to wake up at the slightest disturbance.

A friend in the first ward has a wife who is endowed with this peculiar faculty, or at least who professes to be; his fault was somewhat shaken one night last week, however, and he is now taking her statement on the subject in small doses.

On the night in question, he arrived in the city on a late train, hurrying home, he slammed the gate and stomped up to the door gave the bell a violent pull and patiently waited results. The quiet and the moonlight were very impressive and as he stood with his hand on the bell knob his soul was filled with sentiment, and he regretted that he had not had the forethought to sit down on the veranda and enjoy the surroundings a few moments before disturbing the light sleeper upstairs. The regret was unavailing, however, and after taking in a good deal of moonlight and enjoying the silence until it became a little monotonous, he gave the bell another twist; more silence followed, and the situation was becoming serious as he commenced a hand-organ serenade with a clog dance accompaniment. All the dogs in the neighborhood joined in the chorus, and yet he stood on the cold side of the door, with fluttering prospects ahead. As he sat down on the step and thought about the many wakeful hours enjoyed by his wife during the twenty years of their married life, and how many times he had sympathized with her; a suspicion took possession of his mind that possibly he had been imposed upon, and as he stepped out in the yard, and looked up at the open chamber window, and commenced to call his wife's name, the tone of voice indicated considerable earnestness to say the least. The light sleeper slept on, and the voice down below increased in volume; the neighboring windows commenced to go up, and one man across the way was heard to say, "there's my shot gun? there's a bargain." The situation was becoming desperate, and as a last resort, our friend stepped back to the gate and violently slammed it up, half a dozen times, again stomped up to the door just as a voice inside said, "My dear, is that you?" As she gently opened the door she continued, "I knew your step, for I heard you the minute you touched the walk." "Yes," he answered, "I knew you did, I heard you sliding down the easement before I reached the door. I am sorry you are so wakeful."

A JUVENILE CIRCUS.

A Grand Street Parade Interrupted by an Alarm of Fire.

The restless Janesville boys, having missed the opportunity of witnessing the performance of the Barr Robbins great show, May 1st, on account of the rain storm which prevailed on that day, and tired of waiting for the appearance of Torpaugh, Sells Brothers, and others expected here this season, pooled their small change and organized a show of their own. The juveniles succeeded in keeping the organization of the company to themselves, as they did not seek newspaper notoriety, even when they could secure it gratuitously, and we fear that it had not been for the alarm of fire on Saturday morning, the new organization would soon have been on the road with a combined circus and menagerie that would have astonished old Barnum himself. As we stated, the organization was formed by a joint stock company, or, formed under the laws which govern the democratic war of caucuses, (get all you can and keep what you get,) and officers duly appointed. They had a general manager, equestrian manager, master of ceremonies, "boss canvasser, rooster, about, etc. The advance agent had laid out his route for the season, commencing on last Saturday, in a vacant lot near the point where Park avenue runs into a fence in the third ward. We understand that the show was to give an exhibition on each Saturday during the season, traveling from ward to ward. They had lost no time in collecting natural curiosities, which embraced many rare specimens, common only in places where the law or ordinance for enforcing taxes is not heeded. In fact the company had squandered all their available capital stock in securing animals, birds, cages and rolling stock, and getting these together beneath a large military tent on Saturday morning, they determined to give a show in the afternoon for the purpose of raising more funds to meet expenses. The next thing to determine was how to draw a paying crowd. The general manager soon solved this problem by ordering a grand street parade of the whole outfit. All hands joined in with a will, and at nine o'clock the great Atlantic Greco-Hippodrome and Mons. Ben Butler's great collections of natural wonders, commenced to hitch up and fall in line for the grand street pageant.

The management, when too late, discovered that they had overlooked a band of music, and not having funds on hand to supply this necessary adjunct to a first class traveling show, the roustabouts were formed into a procession, with paper hats, and each provided with a tin horn, were placed at the head of the line, with orders to blow gently. In the rear of the band came the Greco-Hippodrome and Mons. Ben Butler's great collections of natural wonders, commenced to hitch up and fall in line for the grand street pageant.
